'This was easily the most enjoyable and most satisfying live performance I've seen from Elton John... the Orchestra and Choir of the Royal Academy of Music added drama, depth and sheer spectacle to this sumptuous show'

Daily Telegraph, Dec. 2002

Since 1822, the Royal Academy of Music has produced generations of leading soloists, chamber and orchestral musicians, conductors, singers and composers—versatile and resourceful professionals working at the highest international levels.

However, we have no intention of resting on our laurels: outstanding new teachers are regularly recruited; the curriculum is constantly reviewed and updated, new programmes introduced and the latest technology applied; we try to react quickly to—and to anticipate—changes in the profession. Our facilities have been greatly enhanced in the last few years: we have opened the custom-built David Josefovitz Recital Hall (pictured behind me here) and new rehearsal and teaching rooms in York Gate; we have refurbished the Sir Jack Lyons Theatre; and the York Gate Collections display some of our finest instruments as well as providing a centre for research activities.

The Academy is thoroughly cosmopolitan, proud of the excitement it generates. It is also warm and welcoming, a very happy place in which one studies the whole art of music whilst preparing for the rigours of the profession.

Many prospective students will be faced with choices: university or conservatoire? Which conservatoire? London or elsewhere? I urge you to attend the Academy Open Days, arrange consultation lessons with our professors, talk to current students, get the feel of the place. The Academy, which is already very international in both its teaching staff and student body, is deeply committed to recruiting musicians from the widest possible background and range of interests. We have tried very hard to ensure that this Prospectus accurately reflects what happens at the Academy, but please do come and see for yourself. You will be very welcome.

Professor Curtis Price

Studied at Harvard University, where he received his PhD. Taught at King's College London from 1981, latterly Head of Department, when he established the Centre for Advanced Performance Studies jointly with the Academy. Principal of the Academy since 1995, and University of London Professor since 2000. A leading authority on the music of Henry Purcell and historical performance practice, publications include studies of English and Italian music and opera. President of the Royal Musical Association, 1999–2002; Trustee of Musica Britannica and the Handel House Museum; Trustee of the National Sound Archive; Governor of the Purcell School.

Who gets into the Academy?

Anyone—wherever they come from—so long as we think they have the talent and potential to succeed as professional musicians.

How do you cater for so many different student backgrounds and cultures?

We offer a uniquely diverse range of disciplines and programmes—from Foundation Programmes to PhDs—underpinned by a team of heads, academic and 'pastoral' tutors, counsellors, mentors and a specially dedicated officer for international students. We ensure that our student body—from over 50 countries—gets the very best guidance

Facilities

The Academy includes all the requirements of a modern conservatoire:

- > over 100 teaching and practice studios, rehearsal and lecture rooms
- > several large concert rooms
- > the new barrel-vaulted 150-seat David Josefovitz Recital Hall, opened in 2001
- > a recently-modernised opera theatre
- > the Duke's Hall, a 400-seat concert venue
- > electronic and recording studios, used for student performances and for making demonstration tapes
- > a well-equipped library and good restaurant and bar facilities.

The Academy is open during term-time from 7am to 11pm (10pm at weekends) and on a more restricted basis during vacations. York Gate provides additional teaching and practice facilities and a home for the York Gate Collections, where many of the Academy's valuable and historic instruments and manuscripts are displayed.

Library

In addition to the facilities you would expect for undergraduate and postgraduate students, the Library has historical collections of international significance and is a recognised centre for research.

The Library has over 200,000 items, including early printed and manuscript materials, a substantial collection of recordings and audio facilities. Students can apply for access to the University of London

Library and the British Library if they require yet further resources.

The Library houses archives of many eminent musicians including Sir Arthur Sullivan, Sir Henry Wood and David Munrow as well as the Robert Spencer collection of music for lute, guitar and early English song.

Among the Library's most important possessions are the manuscripts of Purcell's The Fairy Queen, Sullivan's The Mikado, Vaughan Williams' Fantasia on a theme of Thomas Tallis and Serenade to Music, and the recently-discovered Handel Gloria.

The Orchestral Library has about 4,000 sets of parts, constantly augmented with new acquisitions. Important collections include the libraries of Sir Henry Wood and Otto Klemperer.

and support according to individual needs.

Does the Academy prepare students for the real world?

90% of recent alumni are gainfully employed in music. We pride ourselves in creating stimulating study programmes for an ever-broadening and fast-changing musical environment. We also prepare students to present performances in a wide range of contexts, from schools, hospitals, clubs and festivals to all kinds of concert venues.

Why not university?

If you are a talented performer who needs to be trained for every eventuality as a professional musician, then you can't do better than a focused curriculum designed to realise your vocation—as we provide at the Academy.

What's special about the Academy?

Quite simply, we have an international teaching and coaching staff second-to-none—and the calibre of students to match them. The friendly atmosphere is a renowned and exceptional feature of Academy life.

How much has the Academy changed in the last 10 or so years?

It has seen the most momentous period of change in the Academy's 180-year history.

We have:

- > almost doubled the size of the Academy's space with 1–5 York Gate, a new Recital Hall, a 'living' museum and other refurbished facilities
- > become the only music conservatoire to be made a member of the world-renowned

University of London, which awards our degrees. Our special connection with King's College London allows our students to expand their horizons with a full range of humanities courses > led the way in Europe with our challenging BMus, MMus and PhD programmes—degrees which have helped to redefine the territory of performance studies and research > introduced Media Music, Musical Theatre, Jazz and a new Opera course > organised an unprecedented number of 'study abroad' opportunities > created 'Open Academy', expanding access with new programmes and initiatives into the widest community > enlarged our famous instrument collection (including 14 Stradivari) > released many outstanding and innovative CDs in a burgeoning catalogue.

What does the Academy expect from its students?

We expect all our students to involve themselves wholeheartedly with all the exceptional opportunities at the Academy, including the vital part played by 'corporate' performance (orchestras, ensembles, chamber music, combos etc).

What else is important?

That you find lifelong friends and colleagues through the 'binding' language of music, seeking meaningful collaboration—an absolutely essential part of a profitable studentship.

Computers

Workstations are available throughout opening hours, equipped with academic and professional applications including word-processing, spreadsheets, scanning, desk-top publishing and state-of-the-art music notation.

Students have free access to email and the internet. The Academy provides computer training, enabling students to master the management and promotional skills needed by professional musicians today.

Instruments

All students, except those of piano, organ, harpsichord and timpani and percussion, are expected to own their own instruments.

The Academy has an extensive stock of instruments. Its collection of over 250 prestigious stringed instruments, in modern, classical and baroque set-up, is regarded as the finest of its type in the world. At any time the majority of the collection is on long-term loan to students or young musicians at the outset of their careers, and also for special occasions such as competitions, important concerts and recordings. There is also a varied stock of woodwind and brass instruments and a substantial collection of modern copies for 'period' performance. The Becket Collection of classical period instruments is housed at the Academy and often appears in orchestral performances.

Junior Academy

The Junior Academy offers courses on Saturdays at the Royal Academy of Music for talented and committed young musicians of secondary school age (12–18). Primary Academy (age 8–12) provides for the musical development of the most able younger musicians. There are also more general preliminary courses (age 4–8). Full details can be obtained from the Junior Academy at the main Academy address; telephone 020 7873 7380; email juniors@ram.ac.uk

Living and Studying in London

04/05

London is an exciting and inspiring capital city in which to live and work. As one of the most cosmopolitan cities in the world, it offers an unrivalled range of cultural and leisure activities. There is always something to do and somewhere to go—whatever your tastes.

Photograph above: the Academy's building and the Duke's Hall, centrally located on Marylebone Road. The David Josefovitz Recital Hall and 1–5 York Gate are alongside.

Music

London is widely acknowledged to be the musical capital of the world. The Academy is right in the heart of the city, within easy reach of many famous venues. The Wigmore Hall, only a few minutes' walk from the Academy, has for generations been one of the most highly-regarded international venues for eminent recitalists.

London has five resident symphony orchestras, all of which perform regularly during term-time. The Academy has particularly strong links with the Philharmonia and London Symphony Orchestra as well as with the Orchestra of the Age of Enlightenment and the London Sinfonietta.

London is a recognised centre for experimental jazz. The city's dynamic club scene is renowned.

Entertainment and the arts

London is a major international centre for all cultural activities.

The Tate, the new Tate Modern Gallery at Bankside Power Station and the National Gallery are envied the world over. There are 300 museums in London, offering everything from the wealth of international artefacts in the British Museum to the latest interactive experience. Admission to the main collections of all London's major museums and galleries is free.

London has over 100 theatres. The famous West End musicals are joined by numerous plays and new drama. Leicester Square is the centre of commercial British cinema, and London's thriving circuit of 'art' cinema includes the National Film Theatre on the South Bank.

Performance Opportunities

While studying at the Academy, students enjoy a range of external performance opportunities to help prepare for the demands of professional life, including international tours and concerts and recitals at major London venues such as the Royal Festival Hall, the Albert Hall and the Royal Opera House. Details about the diverse concerts promoted by the Academy appear on p.06/07.

'infectious energy, hard-hitting rhythm section and open and articulate guitar soloing'

Guardian, April 2000
on the Academy's winners of the Perrier young jazz award

External bookings

In addition, the Academy secures many additional bookings for students to give them the opportunity to gain work experience outside the Academy, thus learning to adopt a professional way of handling and administering paid engagements. These may include performances in concert and recital and opportunities, open to everyone, to earn money playing at functions.

Music and Community

As part of its strategy in Widening Participation, the Academy is committed to a number of schemes embracing community projects which include outreach 'roadshows'. All undergraduate students take the Music and Community course, which provides experience in diverse musical contexts. Postgraduates can contribute to life outside the Academy by selecting the Concert Presentation or Concert Project options.

Competitions

The Academy encourages students to participate in competitions, giving opportunities to learn new repertoire as well as to gain experience performing to a critical audience and to the public.

Student Exchanges

The Academy offers a wide range of opportunities for overseas exchanges for both undergraduate and postgraduate students for periods of three months to one academic year. Information can be obtained from the Registry.

Parks and history

Few cities can boast as many public spaces as London. The Academy is situated next to the famous Regent's Park, home of London Zoo and acres of beautiful gardens. Green Park, St James's Park and Hyde Park are also very central, and there are many other open areas further out.

London's historical buildings are too numerous to list. The most famous of London's historic churches is Wren's masterpiece, St Paul's Cathedral. Many of the fascinating churches in the financial heartland of the City host regular concerts. Cemeteries in London provide a Who's Who to London's past. The London Eye, towering 450 feet above the Thames, has quickly become a London landmark for the 21st century.

Accommodation

The Academy has access to a wide range of accommodation, including halls of residence in the University of London.

Travelling further afield

Trains and coaches travel direct from London to most of Britain's major cities and to many areas of spectacular natural beauty. Paris and Brussels are only a few hours away via the channel tunnel, and London is amongst the world's best-served cities by air, with regular flights to every popular international destination.

Sport and shopping

London is the home to Wimbledon, Lords and the Oval cricket grounds, the English national rugby stadium Twickenham and several Premier League football clubs. The Academy has its own football team, and students have access to many more sporting facilities through the University of London, so there are plenty of opportunities to take part in your preferred sport.

If you're into shopping you certainly won't be disappointed. From historic shopping areas to the most modern designer stores, Oxford Street, Knightsbridge, Covent Garden and the alternative Camden Lock, London has something for everyone.

London on a budget

Many students at the Academy are on a tight budget, but there are plenty of activities in London which are free or inexpensive. Most museums and galleries offer free admission. Lunchtime concerts are often free, as of course are the famous street entertainers of Covent Garden. Many theatres and cinemas offer student standby tickets at half-price or less. The Academy is occasionally offered reduced-price tickets for concerts at the major venues.

Many restaurants offer special deals on particular nights or at less busy times of day, and pubs and bars often advertise cheaper 'happy hours'.

Student Support

Students' Union

RAMSU supports a variety of societies, including Tai Chi, yoga, Christian Union, Alexander Technique and football. As well as providing welfare and international representation, the Union holds regular meetings to ensure students can voice their opinions. Students are also represented on all academic policy committees.

Social activities are an essential part of Academy life. As well as packed Freshers and RAG weeks and a legendary summer ball, the SU organises events every two weeks—including themed parties, karaoke, comedy and movie nights. Academy students have full access to the University of London Union's superb sports, leisure and social facilities.

Financial Assistance

The Academy is able to assist some students towards the costs of their fees and living expenses. See p.50/51.

International Students

The Academy offers an 'acclimatisation' course to selected international students before the beginning of the academic year, including a thorough introduction to the Academy and London life. English Language courses are compulsory for students who are judged to require them in addition to their programme of study. The innovative one-year foundation programme offers an intensive English Language course together with musical tuition; see p.50/51. A handbook for international students is available from the Registry and at www.ram.ac.uk, and the International Students Officer is pleased to give advice.

Careers Advice

Specific careers advice complements the broad-ranging career preparation which is integrated into programmes of study.

Long-term Health

Students can apply for individual lessons in Alexander Technique (see p.41), and small group sessions are available for those with previous experience. The Academy also works with a broad range of medical specialists and has close links with excellent hospitals.

Counselling

A fully-integrated pastoral team is led by the Counsellor and the Academy has a Chaplain.

Special Needs

The Academy's Disability Advisor provides a confidential service on matters relating to dyslexia, mental health and other special needs.

Recordings

Working in the recording industry is increasingly central to the careers of many performers. The Academy's excellent recording facilities are available for producing demo tapes, and the Business for Musicians module of the BMus programme includes training on making and promoting a CD.

In addition, the Academy has an expanding catalogue of high-quality CDs featuring student performances. The raison d'être for making CDs at the Academy is threefold:

- > to provide valuable studio experience for our students
- > to record music which reflects the range and quality of the Academy's musical activity across many disciplines

'To work with the students at the Academy is an important matter. It keeps older musicians in touch with the practising professionals. Energy and experience can together explore the endless possibilities of music-making' > to produce challenging, committed and discerning interpretations of interesting repertoire—something which young, talented people often respond to spectacularly well.

Sir Colin Davis

Please take a few minutes to listen to the CD sampler which is attached to this Prospectus. If you want to know what really goes on at the Academy, it will give you the best possible idea of the range of performance opportunities and standards.

Classical CDs

Academy recordings are regularly broadcast by BBC Radio 3, Classic FM and the BBC World Service. Selected discs are available for sale to the public, with all proceeds used to fund future recordings—please visit www.ram.ac.uk to hear extracts from Academy discs and for full details on our catalogue of recordings, including prices.

Our première recording of Handel's Gloria with Emma Kirkby, Laurence Cummings and the Academy's Baroque Orchestra (BIS CD-1235) shot up the classical charts on its release in June 2001.

Press comments on our classical CDs appear throughout this Prospectus.

Concerts

The Academy's busy schedule of chamber music, ensembles and orchestras is administrated by the Concerts Department.

The Academy's orchestral programme prepares students for an increasingly demanding and rapidly-changing profession.

First-year undergraduate string players take part in String Orchestra. Wind, brass and percussion first-year students participate in a series of weekly classes to introduce them to some of the staples of the orchestral repertoire. From the second year onwards, students progress to the Concert Orchestra, which performs lunchtime concerts with distinguished guest conductors to large and appreciative local audiences, concentrating on standard orchestral repertoire. Students who are interested in historical performance may elect to join the Modern Instrument Baroque Orchestra, a small chamber orchestra which introduces period style.

The Period Instrument Baroque Orchestra has become firmly established, giving regular concerts and masterclasses under the direction of visiting baroque specialists. The Studio Orchestra offers students live session experience directed by an experienced professional session musician.

Intensive 'orchestral project weeks' take place several times a term. The Academy regularly welcomes eminent conductors for concerts and workshops with the Symphony Orchestra, Sinfonia (sponsored by 3i PLC), Manson Ensemble (contemporary music) and Opera Orchestra. Rehearsals are frequently coached by principal players from London's professional orchestras. Valuable partnership schemes with the Philharmonia and London Symphony Orchestra enable students to take part in rehearsals and concerts, leading regularly to work as 'extras' and often to auditions for full-time appointments. There is also a strong relationship with the European Union Youth Orchestra, of which Academy students form a substantial contingent.

As orchestral opportunities become less and less predictable, students are encouraged to become versatile and experienced chamber musicians. Siegmund Nissel of the Amadeus Quartet, principals from the London Sinfonietta and many other eminent musicians provide specialist coaching. Performances by chamber groups form an integral daily part of the Academy's lunchtime and early evening concert programme. Students are also invited to perform specific works in themed

Recent releases include:

> A highly-acclaimed double-CD of classic works for wind ensemble, including music by Strauss, Mozart and Beethoven

> A tribute to the legendary horn player Dennis Brain, who studied and taught at the Academy and whose instrument is displayed in the York Gate Collections

> Music by Sir Harrison Birtwistle, including the world première recording of 17 Tate Riffs

Larger ensembles include brass ensembles of every size and the Royal Academy Soloists, sponsored by The British Land Company PLC. The Soloists, an elite string ensemble of fourteen players, perform with their dynamic director Clio Gould. Since their Wigmore Hall débüt in 2000 they have performed at the Queen Elizabeth Hall and at festivals all over the UK. Brass ensembles combine chamber and brass band repertoire. The Academy Brass Soloists, a ten-piece ensemble launched in 2001, perform concerts inside and outside the Academy.

The Course

Royal Academy Opera is a specialist and intensive postgraduate course for those with the potential and aspirations to succeed as principals at the highest international standard. The concept of the human body being the singer's instrument is fundamental; physical fitness, agility, stage technique, communication and vocal skills, together with a broad repertoire, are all prerequisites for today's opera singers. Classes in bodywork and movement, stage technique, the mainstream European languages, singing lessons and vocal coaching form an integral part of the weekly training schedule.

The two annual productions are directed by highly-experienced professional conductors with Academy orchestras. In recent years, students have enjoyed the inspiring leadership of Sir Colin Davis and Sir Charles Mackerras.

Since 2001, distinguished visiting directors have included John Copley, Ian Judge, Anna Sweeny, Robert Chevara and William Relton. Repertoire is drawn from a wide range of traditions, repertoire and styles, with a strong commitment to contemporary music and historically-aware performances.

Students will also have the opportunity to study rôles in-depth through individual music and language coaching. Excerpts from operas will be presented in a series of tableaux. Performance technique will be developed through work with experienced singers such as Ann Murray and Dennis O'Neill. Close communication between staff from all areas of vocal and operatic training is considered to be of the highest importance, to balance the course's demands with each student's individual development.

Sarah Tynan: Soprano

'I came here for the wide variety of teaching on offer—the coaching on musicianship, acting and movement, as well as on technique, is crucial to my development.'

As well as Academy opera productions, which have included working with Sir Colin Davis, I've performed the Governess in The Turn of the Screw on a tour to Russia, I've been Janacek's Vixen for Opera East, and I've even appeared in G&S. On the concert platform, I've chosen to perform programmes of Debussy and Wolf—it's certainly varied here!'

Any opera programme should be receptive to the changing profession. Hence, the Academy has forged close connections with Glyndebourne Festival Opera, the Royal Opera House Covent Garden, English National Opera, Welsh National Opera, Savoy Opera and British Youth Opera. After two years with Royal Academy Opera, students should be well-equipped to make the most of their opportunities in what is a fiercely competitive environment.

2003–2004 Highlights

- > Acclaimed productions at the Academy of Haydn's Il mondo della luna and Wolf-Ferrari's School for Fathers, which also toured to Clonter Opera
- > Inaugural year of a Bel Canto Prize in association with Opera Rara
- > Staged performances of varied opera tableaux

Your Audition

Please note that Royal Academy Opera is a Postgraduate Diploma (PGDip) programme only, and is not available as either BMus or MMus.

You should prepare four contrasting operatic arias in a variety of languages, one of which must be sung in English or English translation.

In addition to the course-specific requirements above, 45 minutes before the allotted audition time you will be provided with four texts—one in each of Italian, English, French and German. You will be required to prepare and read the English text and one other of their choice.

You will also be given a Quick Study (in English) which you will be required to sing after you have performed your chosen pieces in the audition. See p.52 for general details.

Vocal Studies

'there was little to choose between singers of style, timing and considerable class'

The Times, November 2003

Mark Wildman FRAM, FRSA

Chorister in Gloucester Cathedral before studying at the Academy with Henry Cummings and Rex Stephens, and later with Rupert Bruce Lockhart. A national and international competition prizewinner, his career began as a member of BBC Singers and he subsequently performed as bass soloist in UK, Europe and USA, including Purcell Room, Wigmore Hall, BBC Proms, and at British and European festivals. Students' recent successes include prizes in the Kathleen Ferrier Award, Royal Over-Seas League, National Mozart Competition, Cardiff Singer of the World and ENO's Jerwood programme. Many former students sing as principals in major opera companies in Britain and overseas. Singing teacher at the Academy since 1982 and Head of Vocal Studies since 1991.

The Course

The fine traditions of the Vocal Faculty are perpetuated by a new generation of eminent teachers within a comprehensive vocal training course.

Course work in undergraduate and postgraduate vocal studies programmes is designed to impart the performance skills required for professional careers in opera and concert repertory. Apart from intensive vocal and technical study, students enjoy regular repertoire coaching, stage work, languages, song classes, speech and specialist training in historical performance and contemporary music. Also, the curriculum is enriched with masterclasses and workshops given by outstanding international performers.

Postgraduate students enter the Academy at a stage appropriate to their development and pursue a curriculum designed for their individual needs. The postgraduate vocal studies course includes a preparatory opera programme. Weekly individual and ensemble opera coaching and general stage work classes prepare students for staged opera scenes, directed by a professional producer. For those aiming for a career in solo concert and chamber choir work, the Academy offers a specialist recital/concert course in the later stages of postgraduate study. Students receive extra weekly individual coaching and specialist classes in oratorio, historically-aware performance and contemporary music.

The Chamber Choir performs music from all periods, reflecting the range of professional opportunities available. Students have opportunities to sing in the chorus for opera, musical theatre and oratorio performances.

William Berger: Baritone (BMus)

'You really have to work here—the quality of my fellow-students gives me plenty of motivation to keep improving. The teachers are approachable and flexible, so there's a real sense of discussion and music-making together. I've performed in Academy concerts at the London Bach Festival and Neresheim, and given recitals of Ravel and American song. Through the Academy I've got outside work too, including concerts at the Göttingen Festival and in France, Italy, the USA, Japan and Hungary.'

The Academy has a limited number of places for prospective undergraduate singers who clearly demonstrate at audition professional potential and stamina allied to vocal, musical and intellectual maturity to withstand the rigours and demands of the BMus course.

Your Audition

All candidates

45 minutes before your audition time you will be provided with four texts— one in each of Italian, English, French and German. You will be required to prepare and read the English text and one other of your choice. You will also be given a Quick Study (in English) which you will be required to sing after you have performed your chosen pieces in the audition.

Undergraduates

You should prepare three items in contrasting styles and moods, one of which must be an oratorio aria (with recitative if possible). One item should be sung in a language foreign to you. You may be required to sing only two of the prepared works.

See p.52 for general details.

Postgraduates

You should prepare an operatic aria, an oratorio aria and two contrasting works of your own choice from the song repertoire. One item must be sung in English or English translation.

Choral Direction and Church Music

'The RAM's ensemble offers an attractive alternative to the Tallis Scholars' account... one with freshness and vitality'

Patrick Russill
MA, Hon RAM, Hon FRCO

Organ Scholar at New College, Oxford, studying with David Lumsden and Nicholas Danby. Director of Music at the London Oratory since 1999. He has conducted in Scandinavia, Germany, Italy and Asia as well as the UK. Work as a choir trainer on DG Archiv, Hyperion, Herald and EMI labels.

Executive Committee member and examiner (Choral Direction) at the Royal College of Organists. Musical Editor of The Catholic Hymn Book (1998). Visiting Professor of Choral Direction, Leipzig Hochschule für Musik und Theater. Head of Church Music 1987-97.

Photo location:
St. Marylebone Parish Church.

The Course

The Academy's distinctive postgraduate Choral Direction and Church Music course has been developed from its pioneering Church Music programme. Established in 1997, the two-year course embraces a comprehensive range of sacred music for concert and service plus selected secular repertoire, culminating in the award of an MMus or Diploma of Postgraduate Studies. Choral Direction is offered at undergraduate level as an optional choir-training class, not as a Principal Study.

The modern British choral tradition (both English and Latin) is taken as the practical and stylistic basis for exploration of a broad sweep of European sacred repertoire, related secular music and historically informed performance practices.

Studies include conducting and rehearsal techniques, repertoire, performance practice and interpretation, editing, and vocal technique. These are complemented by contextual studies which examine the repertoire (chant, chorale and hymn, as well as art-music) and its relationship to the liturgy.

Students observe and work with a variety of choral groups, taking advantage of the outstandingly diverse range of opportunities that London offers. There are opportunities to work with members of the Academy's Chamber Choir, and the course has close working relationships with the BBC Singers and the adult professional and children's choirs of the London Oratory and the chapel choir of King's College London.

'While studying in Dublin I became interested in choral music and in the English choral tradition, so I was eager to come to London where this tradition is so rich. The Academy provides an ideal environment to develop as a director through classes in technique, aural, repertoire and singing, and also gives us the practical experience of working regularly with many of London's best professional choral directors and ensembles.

It's a good foundation if you want to progress onto the MMus. I'm currently studying Britten's War Requiem, as both a performance option and a research project.'

Piano teacher since 1973 and Head of Keyboard Studies since 1989. Appointed a Professor of University of London, 2002.

The Courses Piano

The Piano Faculty has a worldwide reputation for training aspiring pianists as soloists, chamber musicians and accompanists. The wide spectrum of professional expertise represents many pianistic traditions, and follows an acclaimed historical lineage which includes such names as Tobias Matthay and Harold Craxton. While some students (especially postgraduates) enter the Academy with a considerable level of performing experience, the primary teaching emphasis is on encouraging students to find their individual identity as performers and to develop technique as a means of realising such artistic personality.

A comprehensive range of performance classes, taken by both professors and visiting teachers, is supplemented by numerous concert opportunities to play as soloists or in ensembles. Specialist classes are held in piano duo playing and in contemporary piano repertoire, and regular coaching is given in chamber music (undergraduate pianists also receive accompaniment training). In addition, students are encouraged to explore early keyboard instruments such as harpsichord and fortepiano. Recent masterclasses have been given by Peter Donohoe, Ferenc Rados, Angela Hewitt, Stephen Hough, John O'Conor, Murray Perahia and many others. Regular masterclasses are given by Alexander Satz and Maria Curcio.

Pianists can undertake a range of performance electives (e.g. working with singers in song classes and developing skills in piano improvisation), contributing towards their final degree/diploma profiles.

Yurie Miura (BMus)

(pictured above)

'I started playing aged 3 at Yamaha Music School, and have played internationally since the age of 13, when I won my first international competition. I particularly value the chamber music here — I have a regular partner for violin sonatas and I'm starting to get bigger ensembles together. Through the Academy I've also gained outside opportunities to perform concertos with full orchestra, as well as solos in festivals. I love living in London — apart from all that music, the clothes shopping is great and eating out doesn't always need to be expensive.'

Piano Accompaniment

Piano Accompaniment may be taken as a Principal Study by postgraduates. Accompaniment coaching is also given to undergraduates as appropriate. The curriculum is designed to train pianists in every aspect of the discipline through exposure to a broad range of song and instrumental accompaniment, duo work and chamber music. Core teaching is supported by masterclasses given by visiting professors, and students can receive linguistic tuition in Lieder, French song and English song classes. Accompanists also receive a weekly piano lesson which may focus on expansion of solo repertoire or on aspects of technique. Selected students are assigned to Royal Academy Opera for intensive training in all aspects of répétiteur work. Covent Garden and English National Opera staff contribute regularly to the study programme.

Your Audition

Piano

You should offer a free-choice programme with a minimum of three works (undergraduates: 20–40 minutes; postgraduates: 40–60 minutes). The programme can include movements of works and should show a wide diversity of character and style as well as evidence of technical accomplishment. The audition panel will select from this programme within the time limits available, but you may specify one work which you particularly wish to perform.

Piano Accompaniment

(postgraduates only) You should prepare a programme (minimum 20 minutes) of songs and/or instrumental works, and including a short, technically demanding solo work. Some tests of musicianship and keyboard skills may be given.

Acccompanists must bring their own soloist(s)—please contact the Registry at least three weeks in advance if you experience difficulties in arranging this.

Répétiteurs

You should coach your singers in two contrasted arias, and prepare a scene from a repertoire opera. A reasonable knowledge of at least two foreign languages is expected. See p.52 for general details.

The Course

The Academy was the first British conservatoire to introduce teaching for the classical accordion—an instrument with a substantial original solo and chamber repertory. The specialist curriculum complements other courses and includes master-classes, performance practice, accordion history, repertory, instrument maintenance and art of teaching classes.

The accordion is thoroughly integrated into the life and work of the Academy through a strong and wide-ranging chamber music programme. The response of contemporary composers to the instrument's emergence is reflected in continuing collaborations with composition students and established composers.

Apart from many concert opportunities within the Academy, accordion students have performed at leading music festivals in the UK and abroad. In 1998 the entire accordion department made its Proms débüt with the BBC Symphony Orchestra at the Royal Albert Hall. Academy accordion students have enjoyed considerable success in major competitions. Distinguished accordionists who have given concerts and masterclasses at the Academy include Friedrich Lips, Matti Rantanen, Mie Miki, Viascheslav Semionov, Oleg Sharov and Peter Soave.

'the players' expertise was astonishing'

The Times, April 2003
 (Royal Festival Hall contemporary organ music project)

The Course

The Academy's comprehensive and specialist organ curriculum has a world-wide reputation. The course includes contemporary music seminars, improvisation, integration with Historical Performance studies, the history and repertoire of the organ and workshops by distinguished guest teachers such as Marie-Claire Alain, Kenneth Gilbert, Piet Kee, Kei Koito and Daniel Roth. In June 2002, a pioneering harmonium course began under the direction of Anne Page.

Students have regular access to organs in the 'classical' and 19th-century French symphonic traditions, the four-manual classical organ by Rieger in nearby St Marylebone Parish Church is part-owned by the Academy and used as its main teaching instrument, as well as an important two-manual organ after the great French builder, Cavaillé-Coll, specially made for the Duke's Hall by the Dutch firm of van den Heuvel. A rare Neopolitan organ of 1763 by Michelangelo & Carlo Sanarica, restored in Italy by the renowned Riccardo Lorenzini, was inaugurated in spring 2004.

Postgraduates follow a curriculum designed for their individual needs. Performance practice projects are supervised by specialists and frequently take the form of overseas visits where repertoire study is matched to a specific organ-building tradition.

The one-year Organ Foundation Course is designed primarily for 'gap-year' students preparing either for Oxbridge organ scholarships or for those wishing to develop their organ playing and choral direction skills to a high level before university or conservatoire studies.

The Course

The Academy's outstanding tradition of training string players of the highest calibre is given testimony by the number of alumni pursuing solo careers or who are principal players in orchestras and chamber ensembles throughout the world. Through a specialist programme of solo, chamber music and orchestral performance, the Academy comprehensively prepares students for a professional career. A high proportion of string players recently graduating from the Academy have taken up professional positions worldwide. Many students are selected to perform with the European Union and Gustav Mahler Youth Orchestras.

The Academy hosts masterclasses by members of the teaching staff and regularly Chamber music is a major component of all string students' work—see p.06/07. Fourteen of the top string players make up the Royal Academy Soloists, who are directed by Clio Gould.

Instrument Collection

The Academy's collection of over 250 stringed instruments, including 25 Cremonese instruments, is the most significant of its type worldwide. Many instruments are available for student use. The staff of the on-site stringed instrument workshop advise students on maintenance of their own instruments, and a bow specialist visits regularly for rehairs and repairs.

Double bass (B Mus)

'Bassists at the Academy enjoy a perfect blend of healthy competition but a strong support network and sense that we're all in it together. As well as some great concerts with the Symphony Orchestra I've played with Elton John at the Royal Opera House, recorded a CD of student works for the composition department, and performed everything from media music to baroque. I've studied with all the bass teachers and had lessons in voice (as second-study) and jazz. I've also learned a lot through Music in Community projects and getting involved with the Students' Union.'

Your Audition

A good knowledge of scales and arpeggios is expected. See p.52 for general details.

Violin: Undergraduates

1st movement (with cadenza) of a concerto by Haydn or Mozart and a contrasting piece.

Violin: Postgraduates

1st movement of a major post 1800 concerto and a contrasting piece.

Over my time here I've recorded demos in the studio, performed all the major ensemble repertoire and worked with contemporary composers. I've played jazz and media music as well as concertos.

The Academy has been very supportive of my outside career too — I've been positively encouraged to accept each opportunity, whether it's a little recital or a two-week US concert tour.'

Professor Skaila Kanga LRAM, FRAM

Studied at the Royal Academy of Music. Composer, widely known as a soloist, chamber musician and recording artist. Principal with the Nash Ensemble for 25 years, as well as the Academy of St Martin-in-the-Fields, Sinfonia of London and the London Mozart Players, and regular Guest Principal of the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra. Alongside her classical career, Skaila has always been very active in the pop world, and has a long list of film and TV credits. Head of Harp since 1988.

Photo location:
the York Gate Collections

The Course

The harp has played a major rôle at the Academy since the earliest days. In addition to studying solo, concerto and chamber repertoire, students also take part in regular classes in orchestral and contemporary performance, jazz and improvisation, technical advancement, art of teaching and harp ensemble classes.

The Academy's numerous orchestras and ensembles provide experience in all styles of performance from classical to avant-garde and jazz. In addition, the Academy regularly hosts masterclasses — and many students have achieved major successes in national and international competitions. The harp department commissions new works annually, and its Harp Showcase concerts attract a wide audience.

Classical Guitar

Michael Lewin FRAM

Studied at the Royal Academy of Music and later in Spain with José Tomas. As guitarist and lutenist, has performed with the Royal Shakespeare Company, Scottish Opera, English National Opera, Royal Opera House Covent Garden and La Piccola Scala, Milan. In addition to solo concerts, has played and recorded with leading ensembles and orchestras throughout Europe. Vice-President of the European Guitar Teachers' Association.

The Course

The Academy has established itself as a foremost international centre for the study of the classical guitar, with a comprehensive curriculum which encourages students to reach the highest standards as soloists, ensemble players and teachers. The expertise of the department embraces all aspects of guitar performance, from the concert platform to the theatre, ballet, opera house and recording studio, as well as specialisms in the main historical periods.

Among the distinguished visiting artists have been the Assad Duo, Manuel Barrueco, David Russell, David Starobin, John Williams and Julian Bream (who adjudicates his prize each year).

Other special events have featured the composers Leo Brouwer, Stephen Dodgson, Hans Werner Henze and Sir Peter Maxwell Davies and an International Guitar Duo Festival. Academy guitarists regularly win top prizes in major national and international competitions. Outstanding alumni include David Russell, Antigoni Goni, Fabio Zanon, Mark Ashford, Xuefei Yang, the Eden/Stell and Katona duos and both Tetra and the English Guitar quartets.

Woodwind

'can be enjoyed on a level equal to that of many a seasoned professional ensemble... the playing is so skilful, carried off with lightness and with a richness of ensemble.'

Sunday Telegraph, January 2004, on the Symphonic Wind CD Sounding Out

Keith Bragg Hon ARAM, AGSM
Studied with Judith Pearce, then William Bennett at the Guildhall School of Music and in Paris with Maxence Larrieu. Principal Piccolo of the Philharmonia Orchestra since 1982, and Chairman of the Philharmonia since 1990, he has performed with all the major London orchestras.

A founder member of the Elysian Wind Quintet, the leading British ensemble of its kind for over twenty years, which performed at major festivals all over Europe and developed a formidable reputation in contemporary music.

Professor of Piccolo since 1992 and Head of Woodwind since 2002.

The Course

The Woodwind Faculty provides a thorough and broad-based training in all significant aspects of preparation for entry to the music profession. Teamwork is a key element in the department and students are free to work with more than one professor. Because the approach to instrumental teaching is broadly similar, there is little or no danger of contradiction and confusion.

Individual lessons for Principal Study and related instruments are complemented by intensive training in orchestral studies, art of teaching, reed-making and basic instrument maintenance. There are fifteen classes each year where students are led by one of a team of eminent soloists, which gives an opportunity to experiment and to explore communication skills in performance.

Recent Student Successes

Recent graduates play with Berlin Phil, BBC orchestras, City of Birmingham SO, English National Opera, Gothenburg Opera, Hong Kong Phil, Iceland SO, London SO, Royal Concertgebouw, Royal Philharmonic, Royal Swedish Opera and others. Ensembles include Galliard and Mobius.

Chamber music for wind and for mixed ensemble is a major part of the department's programme. Concerts are frequent; all ensemble work is coached and the standard of performance is very high.

Recent masterclasses have been given by William Bennett, Roger Birnstingl, Henri Bok, Robert Dick, Paul Goodwin, Ingo Goretzki, Michael Heitzler, Eckhart Hübner, Maxence Larrieu, Andrew Marriner, Stephen Mauz, Sabine Meyer, Frank Nolan, Alexei Ogrintchouk, Antony Pay, John Price, Hansjörg Schellenberger, Helen Simons, Christian Wetzel and Dominik Wollenweber.

the LSO scheme and at the Kurtág festival, performed Shostakovich 8 with Yan Pascal Tortelier, and organised chamber ensembles with fellow students. The repertoire sessions with Keith Bragg are fantastic — he tells us exactly what we need to know, because he does it himself every day. We all have to study doubling instruments too, which means that I can now accept gigs that players from other places might have to turn down.'

James Watson has held principal trumpet posts with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, Royal Opera House and London Sinfonietta. International chamber music work has included the Nash Ensemble and leading the world-famous Philip Jones Brass Ensemble. He is particularly active in film and television and has recorded with pop legends Elton John, Paul McCartney and Peter Gabriel. His conducting positions have included Artistic Director of the Black Dyke Mills Band, 1992–2000.

James was Artistic Director of the National Youth Brass Band of Wales for six years and is Vice-President of the National Youth Wind Orchestra of Great Britain. Head of Brass since 2001.

Photo location:
the York Gate Collections

The Course

In recent years the Academy's Brass Faculty has established itself as one of the foremost in the world. The Academy's distinguished resident and visiting teachers of brass are active at the highest professional level, and include principal players with London's leading orchestras and world-renowned solo performers. Students are thus kept in close touch with professional developments and opportunities. Orchestral and ensemble playing are central to the curriculum, and the Academy expects students to investigate all periods of performance technique, from historical performance to contemporary idioms. Apart from orchestral and chamber concerts, regular rehearsals, sectionals and chamber ensembles are led by distinguished performers from both inside and outside the Academy.

Recent graduates play with BBC orchestras, Birmingham Royal Ballet, City of Birmingham Symphony, English Chamber Orchestra, Hallé, London Symphony, Netherlands Radio Philharmonic, Philharmonia, Royal Liverpool Philharmonic, Royal Philharmonic, Scottish Opera. Ensembles include Onyx, Karelia and QuintEssential.

Eminent visitors such as Canadian Brass, Joseph Allesi, Kenneth Amis, Ronald Barron, Leonard Candelaria, Hakan Hardenberger, John Kenny, Christian Lindberg, Don Lucas, Eric Ruske, Guy Touvron and Radovan Vlatkovic have given regular masterclasses.

A CD of symphonic brass music, directed by John Wallace and James Watson, was released in 2002.

Timpani and Percussion

'Students from the RAM gave a very fine account of Bartók's Sonata for Two Pianos and Percussion'

The Guardian, May 2002

Neil Percy Dip RCM, ARCM, Hon ARAM

Principal Percussionist with the London Symphony Orchestra, Neil studied at Chetham's School of Music, and jazz and composition at Eastman School of Music before continuing his studies at the Royal College of Music. He won the Bronze Medal in the first Shell/LSO scholarship for Timpani and Percussion. As a player he has worked closely with many artists and conductors including Pierre Boulez, André Previn, Elvis Costello and John Williams, and as a soloist with Steve Reich, Ravi Shankar, Kent Nagano and Elgar Howarth. As a clinician and educator he has given masterclasses in Europe, the USA and Asia, and has coached many leading youth orchestras including the PMF, National Musicians Symphony and National Youth Orchestras. Head of Department since 2000.

The Course

The Timpani and Percussion Department has a worldwide reputation for its provision for students, and for its training in the multi-faceted world of timpani and percussion. The members of staff include principal players with London's leading orchestras, international soloists, and leading session musicians, all of whom are active in music making of the highest professional standard.

Orchestral training on timpani and percussion instruments is the core component, and the Academy's range of orchestras and ensembles, together with its extensive range of quality instruments and practice facilities, present outstanding opportunities.

Timpani and Percussion lessons are complemented by regular faculty activities such as repertoire, performance

The Academy has an extensive provision for marimba. Regular masterclasses from many of the world's leading tuned percussion specialists offer excellent opportunities for the aspiring tuned percussion student. Recent visitors have included Keiko Abe, Eric Sammut and She-e Wu.

Eminent soloists, orchestral principals and ensemble leaders are regular visitors to the Academy, and masterclasses have been given by Airto, Birger Sulsbruck, Evelyn Glennie,

Conducting

'A remarkable performance by the students' orchestra of nothing less than Mahler's Ninth Symphony with some superb solo contributions'

Sunday Telegraph,
March 1999

Colin Metters Hon ARAM, Hon RAM

Colin Metters' wide experience affords him an enviable reputation across a wide spectrum of the music profession as conductor, orchestral trainer and conducting pedagogue. He has worked with leading symphony orchestras in the UK, and guest-conducted extensively abroad. Metters has an international reputation as a leading pedagogue, and has given masterclasses in Germany, Poland, Finland, Australia, Venezuela, Vietnam, China and the USA. In 1997 he was appointed Music Advisor and Principal Guest Conductor to the Vietnam National Symphony Orchestra. In 1999, he was awarded the Vietnamese equivalent of the Order of Merit, the first to be made to a British citizen. Professor and Director of Conducting Studies since 1983.

The Course

Established in 1983 under the direction of Colin Metters, the Royal Academy of Music's postgraduate conducting programme is now internationally recognised as one of the foremost programmes in conductor training. The course provides a comprehensive and integrated programme over three years, examining what lies behind the art and craft of conducting and the role and responsibilities of the conductor, and seeks a better understanding of the complex relationship that exists between conductor and performers. The course is designed to provide a strong technical foundation, studying laws of cause and effect as they relate to conducting, and to develop the ability to be both self-aware and self-critical in all aspects of the conductor's craft.

Regular classes are held throughout the term under the direction of Colin Metters, with additional masterclasses given by visiting guest conductors including Sir Colin Davis, Ilya Musin (St. Petersburg Conservatoire), Jorma Panula (Sibelius Academy, Helsinki), Claus Peter Flor, Yuri Simonov, Lutz Köhler (Berlin), Sir Roger Norrington, Sir Charles Mackerras, Leonard Slatkin, Kenneth Kiesler (Michigan), Carl Topilow (Cleveland) and Thomas Baldner (Indiana). George Hurst also visits once each term to work with the conductors' class.

Leo Hussain

'Having conducted concerts at university when I should have been writing essays, it was a relief to come here for such an intensive practical course. Spending so much time in the building means that you are around (and so learn from) many extraordinary musicians — guest conductors, teachers and students of all disciplines. Three years may seem long for a postgraduate course, but

I've found that it has given me a complete grounding in the actual process of conducting. When I'm going from Figaro one night to Bartók the next, it's nice to have one thing I don't have to think about!'

Repertoire over the course is broad-based, the mainstream orchestral and concerto repertoire forming the central core of the curriculum. The course maintains a strong link with the Composition and Contemporary Music Faculty and the Manson Ensemble, working on established twentieth-century repertoire and on premières of student compositions, the conductors working in direct collaboration with the composers. Students also work with Royal Academy Opera and the Vocal Faculty on various projects and workshops throughout the year, and have the opportunity to work with the Academy's instrumental ensembles and orchestras.

Additional studies, including aural classes, keyboard skills, transposition and score-reading take place regularly throughout the course.

Your Audition

Auditions take place in London only. Auditions for orchestral (not choral) conductors are held in February/March 2005 for entry in September. Detailed requirements will be sent in mid-January and are available at www.ram.ac.uk. The closing date for receipt of applications is 7th January 2005. Whilst non-UK candidates may send a video (UK VHS only) to support their application, there is normally no shortlisting from video and the entire selection process is through the practical audition. Denise Ham Hon ARAM
(Tutor in Undergraduate Conducting)

There is strong provision for both undergraduate and postgraduate students who wish to pursue conducting study but who are not on the Conducting postgraduate course itself.

Undergraduate Conducting

This is designed to equip all second-year students with a basic conducting technique, enabling them to show tempo and some degree of texture and dynamic through gesture.

Conducting Elective

Students should have attained a 2:1 grade in the second-year exam to be eligible for this; however, any second-year student who shows particular ability and wishes to undertake more intensive study may also join the elective class. This course involves study of specific repertoire and baton technique.

Intermediate Level

Acceptance is by audition. Students would normally have completed the elective, but any student in the Academy may audition for this course in order to receive individual tuition.

The Course

Contemporary musical theatre demands versatile performers of a high musical and vocal standard, with strong dramatic and verbal ability, together with dance and movement skills. The Academy's one-year course offers an intensive training to postgraduate (or equivalent) students pursuing a career in musical theatre. It aims to provide a direct link from theoretical class work, via practical opportunities for entry to the profession.

Students have individual singing lessons, repertoire coaching and spoken word tutorials, as well as classes in voice and the spoken word, extended vocal techniques, dance (including jazz and tap), movement, acting, singing, audition classes and project work. Students are also offered masterclasses and workshops with visiting professionals, and take part in internal competitions.

Musical Director and/or Repetiteur Course

This Course is structured according to individual needs and experience, and is intended to operate alongside, and in tandem with, the Musical Theatre Course. Contact the Musical Theatre Department to arrange a meeting to discuss the details of any application.

'I come from South Africa and I taught music there before arriving in the UK with a tour of The Mysteries, produced in conjunction with Broomhill Opera. Having a background in music but no theatrical training, I decided to come to the Academy to fine-tune my performing skills and specialise in Musical Theatre. Thanks to the acting classes I can now devise and explore a wider range of original characters. I have also worked hard with the singing and voice teachers to improve my vocal technique. I've learned how to combine all these diverse skills to enhance my performance onstage, whether it's of Les Mis in the Duke's Hall or new works by Media and Applied Music students.'

Jazz

'The Academy is churning out fantastic young jazz musicians at a terrifying rate'

Jazzwise, June 2001

Gerard Presencer Hon ARAM

Trumpet soloist, grew up playing in the London jazz scene of the early 80s. Plays, writes and arranges for Charlie Watts of the Rolling Stones. Featured soloist on Bluenote Record's largest ever selling release, Cantaloop by US 3. In continual demand on the international circuit, Gerard has recorded and soloed with Chick Corea, Herbie Hancock, Ray Charles, Sting, Jamiroquai and James Brown. Winner of the British Jazz Awards trumpet category in 1995, 1997, 1999 and 2002. Signed to ACT Records with his quartet, latest release Chasing Reality. Professor of Trumpet at the Berlin Hochschule für Musik Hanns Eisler. Head of Jazz since 1999.

The Course

The Academy offers an ideal environment to learn and experiment with this extremely broad art form. There is a strong emphasis on performance with opportunities to play within the college and outside. The course benefits from small numbers, enabling each year to form a combo that will play together extensively. The interaction between players can therefore develop to an exciting degree, perhaps creating lifelong musical associations.

Undeniably some of the finest jazz performers have been great composers too (from John Coltrane to Kenny Wheeler). We aim to continue this tradition with a full and varied course in composition and arranging—covering many aspects and forms of jazz music and possible applications within other genres. We aim that, by the time you graduate, you will have found your own creative voice and begun to develop this.

Prize-winners at Perrier Young Jazz Competition '97, '98, '99 and '01.

We bring in performers from the world jazz scene, as often as possible, to play with students. The course is committed to continual development in order to remain as vital as possible in this ever-changing art form.

The department runs a four-year BMus programme, a nine-month Postgraduate Diploma and a 1-2 year MMus programme.

Your Audition

Detailed audition requirements are available at www.ram.ac.uk and from the Registry. You will be required to demonstrate proficiency in your chosen idiom(s), including instrumental technique, improvisation, sight reading and ability to relate to an accompanying group (provided from current students). See p.52 for general details.

'I went to school in the west of Scotland, and got into jazz in my last few years there. I chose to come here simply because I liked the atmosphere at audition.'

Everyone here wants to play as much as possible, and we often get to work with big names in the profession and perform in venues like the 606 and Pizza Express. I've also worked with the classical percussion department, and have recorded with media music students. I've made links with the outside world too, and have played professionally in big outdoor festivals and on tours overseas.'

Media and Applied Music

'Walter has undoubtedly forgotten more technique than most composer/arrangers ever knew'

The Guardian, October 1999

Dick Walter BA, Hon ARAM

Composer, arranger and musical director. Works include several Arts Council commissions and two highly acclaimed CDs: Capricorn Rising (1996) and Secret Moves (1999). Commercials include Hovis, Dulux, Electricity, Yellow Pages (for 13 years), and award-winners for British Airways and Tabasco. TV credits for drama and light entertainment shows. Other credits include music for film, animation and a jazz score for Damon Runyon's Butch Minds the Baby. Work with orchestras includes Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, BBC Radio Orchestra and The Metropole Orchestra (Holland). Nomination for Jazz Arranger of the Year 2001. Director of Media and Applied Music Studies since 1998.

The Course

The undergraduate Media and Applied Music course is designed to equip the student with all the skills needed to work in the music business, whether as composer, arranger, musical director or orchestrator. The course initially concentrates on the craft of writing—the analysis of melodic techniques, theory of harmonic progression, and techniques of orchestration—as well as the study of contemporary technology.

Past Students

Oliver Ashmore ('90)
James Brett ('97)
Oliver Davis ('94)
Richard Lannoy ('96)
James Radford ('96)
James Shearman ('96)
and many more actively working for film, television and the stage.

All of these studies are directly related to the needs of the contemporary working writer, and students are given opportunities from the first year to direct and record their pieces in a studio setting, with players from the Academy as well as access to a variety of computer-based equipment. As the course progresses, students start to apply the techniques they have learnt to the requirements of film, TV and the musical theatre, and are increasingly encouraged to explore those areas in which they are most interested in pursuing a career.

Christina Godbold

'At school I wrote some songs and bits and pieces for bands that I knew. Then I applied here on the recommendation of a former Academy student. Since coming here I've written for almost everything imaginable — always in a real business situation and to a specific brief. I've written for big band, an orchestra, mixed ensembles and a musical theatre choir. I now know how to write to picture and for rhythm section. I've also played bass guitar (my second study) for musical theatre and in recording sessions of music written by students on the course, including some of my own works.'

Your Audition

You should present a wide variety of your pieces — both compositions and arrangements — in the form of full scores (either hand-written or computer printed), short scores or lead sheets, accompanied preferably by a CD, or alternatively by a cassette tape. Submissions without a recording will not be considered. A minimum of five separate items should be presented, which should demonstrate an interest in the many different styles of music used within the media.

You must have an interest in both conventional instrumental and vocal writing as well as in technology-based composition.

See p.52 for general details.

You must send your portfolio to the Registry by 22nd October 2004.

Historical Performance

'Smooth and ideally flexible playing of the RAM Period Instrument Baroque Orchestra under Laurence Cummings. And the playing wasn't just "authentic" and polite: Cummings built up a truly operatic head of steam'

Opera magazine, February 2003, on L'Incoronazione di Poppea

Laurence Cummings MA,
ARCM, FRCO, Hon ARAM

Studied at Oxford University and the Royal College of Music. Has played harpsichord and organ continuo with many leading period instrument groups, including Les Arts Florissants, The Sixteen Choir, Gabrieli Consort and Orchestra of the Age of Enlightenment. As a soloist has recorded the harpsichord music of Louis Couperin and has embarked on a project to record the music of François Couperin. Musical Director of London Handel Orchestra and Tilford Bach Society. Head of Historical Performance since 1997.

Photo location:

David Josefowitz Recital Hall.

The Course

The Historical Performance Faculty offers intensive training in all aspects of historically-informed interpretation. In expanding specialist performance possibilities for 'traditional' and 'modern' instrumentalists and singers alike, the Faculty combines the role of the former Early Music department with a broader involvement in mainstream Academy life. Principal-study tuition is provided on 'period' instruments, and contemporary players are also encouraged to learn an equivalent period instrument. For singers, interpretation classes, coaching and performance opportunities are available in earlier repertoire.

Two baroque orchestras — one a period instrument ensemble, the other a modern instrument group which performs in a style appropriate to its repertoire — regularly rehearse and perform.

Past Students

Ashley Solomon ('91), recorder
Katherine McGillivray ('94), viola
Alison McGillivray ('95), cello
Anna Sliwa ('97), harpsichord
Matthew Wadsworth ('97), lute
Rodolfo Richter (99), violin
Richard Sweeney ('01), lute
Musicke Companye and Quint-Essential Cornets & Sackbuts

The Brass and Vocal departments also give frequent joint concerts using period instruments. Specialist classes in detailed areas of performance practice (for example, national styles, tuning systems, ornamentation, compositional techniques, continuo disciplines, dance) are offered by eminent teachers, who are active as soloists and members of leading period instrument ensembles.

The faculty has close links with the Handel House Museum, and often presents concerts there.

Resources include a fine collection of original instruments and modern copies, which are available for student use, and a comprehensive library of rare manuscripts and editions. The Becket Collection of period instruments has been kindly loaned to the Academy by Elise Becket Smith.

Caroline Ritchie: Cello (MMus)

(pictured above)

'I studied at Oxford before coming here (originally on the PGDip programme, but then I converted to MMus) to focus on my playing — and I've certainly done that.'

The department forms a tight-knit and international community, so it's easy to be drawn into a huge range of projects. I've performed Mozart's Requiem for Roger Norrington at the Spitalfields

Festival, continuo viol for Royal Academy Opera's Poppea and lots of chamber music including piano trios for an OAE pre-concert performance at the QEH. Another highlight has been the baroque dance classes...'

Your Audition

Two or three contrasting pieces of your own choice. A harpsichord tuned to A=415 is available at London auditions.

Academic Studies

'A tour de force of stamina as well as musical subtlety and selflessness'

The Independent, April 2000
(Pärt's Passio in Westminster Cathedral)

Jeremy Summery MA, MMus,
Hon ARAM, Hon FASC

Undergraduate at New College, Oxford and postgraduate musicology student at King's College, London. Founded Oxford Camerata in 1984, and conductor of Schola Cantorum of Oxford 1990-6. Has conducted 40 CD recordings spanning music from Gregorian chant to the present day and toured Europe, USA, Japan, Southern Africa; received European Cultural Prize in 1995 and made his Proms conducting débüt in 1999. Freelance record producer and writer/presenter for BBC Radios 3 and 4. BBC Studio Manager 1982-9. Academic Studies Lecturer since 1989, Head of Academic Studies since 1996, and Head of Undergraduate Programmes since 1999.

The Course

Academic Studies are considered essential to every student's development as a performer. A comprehensive range of topical courses is offered across the disciplines of Historical Musicology, Analysis, Performance Practice, and Composition, as well as Aural Training, Keyboard Skills, Technology, and Conducting (Supporting Studies) courses which are designed to reinforce students' critical awareness as performers and/or composers.

Years 1 and 2 of the BMus comprise a common core. In Years 3 and 4, students select their own specialisms from a wide range of electives. The programme's flexibility encourages students to pursue their own individual interests in order to prepare for a range of careers within the music profession. A full range of specialist music and humanities courses is also available for Academy students at King's College London. Please see p.46/47 for more details on the BMus.

'At the age of 17, I had to decide whether to read academic music at Oxbridge or to study here. Not only has the Academy given me the opportunity to refine my instrumental technique amongst the best performing musicians in the world, it has provided a tremendous breadth of intellectual disciplines to satisfy all manner of pursuits through music. The academic tutors are inspirational characters, many well-established as successful performing musicians as well as distinguished scholars, so that within the institution the faculty is pre-eminent and the taught branches of musicology are all of the utmost relevance.'

The York Gate Centre for Performance Research

(pictured above right)

Exhibitions taken from the Academy's playing collections of stringed instruments and pianos, along with other instruments, documents and images, are displayed in three floors of galleries. The York Gate Collections host weekly research events with performances, workshops, seminars, talks and discussions. These open sessions, involving staff, students and visiting performers and scholars, are designed to stimulate critical reflection and wide-ranging debate on current theory and practice in performance and composition.

With its new doctoral programmes (in Performance Practice and Composition) and free public access to the York Gate Collections, the Academy is committed to exploring new avenues in the fast-developing area of Performance Research.

Alexander Technique

Alexander Technique has been taught at the Academy for over 20 years. Lessons are provided by a team of highly-qualified teachers, some of whom are also professional musicians. Students normally receive 20 lessons spaced throughout the year. These one-to-one lessons are intended to be an introduction to the technique and are educational rather than therapeutic. Students learn how to 'use' themselves in the best way possible, and thereby function at their best whilst also avoiding injury.

Open Academy

'Thank you for the music lessons, you are the funniest people I have ever worked with. I thought it was a great experience, thank you for letting us take part. PS the concert was WICKED!'

Participant from Tower Hamlets, February 2004

Introduction

Open Academy is a major new initiative. It combines a series of educational projects — some already existing and some brand-new — which all challenge preconceptions of what music conservatoires do.

The Academy's mission, since its foundation in 1822, has always been to provide musical training at the highest level. Open Academy expands the potential 'market' for this training beyond enrolled Academy students and out into the fullest range of society. Academy students also benefit directly from Open Academy, as they engage in innovative education projects.

Music in Community

Professional musicians in the 21st century need the skills to communicate with anyone and everyone — from the youngest child in a practical education workshop to potential and existing audiences for classical concerts. All undergraduates participate in the Academy's Music in Community projects and gain expertise in entrepreneurship and workshop leadership — specialist skills which are in great demand throughout the music profession. The students, each working on an internship with a partner organisation, devise and execute professional education projects whilst receiving training 'on the job'. Sessions with leading animateurs, performers and composers cover communication techniques, creative composition, special needs training, new media tools and marketing.

Project partners include London Sinfonietta, Wigmore Hall, Spitalfields Festival and the Orchestra of the Age of Enlightenment. Many children and adults from a great variety of backgrounds enjoy and benefit from working with Academy students in long-term collaborations with toddler groups, schools and community centres throughout London.

Access

The Academy is committed to widening access and to providing new gateways towards learning. In special Open Days, young musicians of various ages and skills can experience the thrill of music-making alongside Academy students and teachers. Teams of staff and students also reach out into the community with a new series of 'Roadshows', which present a practical, participatory insight into the Academy and the music profession as a whole.

USA using video-conference technology.

A significant foundation programme is under preparation for students who do not as yet possess the full range of skills and experience required to join the BMus programme. The programme will assess potential students on raw talent and aural perception, on any instrument and in any musical idiom. Video-conferencing (see below) also allows the Academy to reach new audiences.

York Gate Collections

The Academy's 'gateway to music history in the making' acts as a portal between the outside world and the academic research activities of students and staff. York Gate is a venue for live music as well as an exhibition space, and presents a regular series of public events which combine discussion with performance. A website, currently in development, will provide universal access to records of these research events as well as detailed information on the many outstanding instruments, artefacts, images, documents and archives in the Collections — all enabling users to make their own creative connections between past, present and future.

Preparing for the profession
The Academy's Business for Musicians module, another mandatory part of the undergraduate training programme, spills over into a series of 'Into the Future' seminar days, open to musicians from across the country as well as Academy students. Industry-wide business practitioners present guidance on many career and development-related subjects.

LRAM

The Licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music (LRAM) diploma provides a comprehensive introduction to the principles of teaching through practical work. The LRAM is available to all students and there are plans to extend its range through distance learning.

Further initiatives in preparation

The Academy is developing an integrated e-learning programme which will support learning over the web for students, enthusiasts and professionals of all ages.

Video-conferencing as a learning tool at the Academy was launched in March 2004, with teachers in London working in real-time with students in Cleveland, New York and Helsinki. Audio-visual collaborations will enable outreach programmes to extend across international borders — from Tower Hamlets to Harlem.

The Creative Technology Centre will provide an inspiring, multi-dimensional, interactive environment where people of all ages and backgrounds can explore music as sound. A scheme with Massachusetts Institute of Technology will explore hyper-instruments, integrating future technologies with a broad range of contemporary music.

The Academy offers annual summer schools for 15–17 year-olds from all backgrounds who have an interest in music and who aspire to higher education.

Our Range of Programmes

The Academy offers the following at postgraduate level:

- > Postgraduate Diploma in Performance—PG Dip
- > Master of Music in Performance—MMus
- > Master of Music in Composition—MMus
- > Postgraduate Diplomas in Opera Performance (see p.08–09) and Musical Theatre (see p.32–33)—PG Dip
- > Research degrees in Composition or Performance Practice—MPhil and PhD

All the postgraduate programmes are designed to equip students for the competitiveness of the music profession, and to allow them to exert their creative leadership to the full. Applicants can receive a full programme specification for each programme on request.

Research Degrees

The Academy offers two-year MPhil and three-year PhD awards. Although offered under the regulations of the University of London, and concentrating primarily on academic work, both programmes ensure their distinctiveness by being based on the same premise as all other Academy degrees: of students reflecting the highest possible practical standards.

Teaching Delivery

Students are allocated 30 hours of supervision per year. They may apply for a further year to complete or 'write up' their portfolio or dissertation at a reduced rate. Supervision hours are divided between academic and practical supervision as negotiated with the Research Degrees Board and the student's principal supervisor. The closing date for receipt of MPhil and PhD applications is 7th January 2005.

MPhil/PhD in Performance Practice

Aims and Objectives

The research degree in Performance Practice is designed to encourage postgraduate performers to engage in the academic disciplines of performance research at the highest level. Such involvement and training will help already experienced performers to exert an enhanced leadership within the musical profession, and within higher education institutions specialising in performance study. The programme is specifically designed to encourage the development of new methodologies, new insights, and new knowledge within performance research.

Learning Outcomes

Students will have demonstrated their ability to carry through an original academic thesis on issues relating to performance research, and to illustrate the research outcomes through their own performances as well as through a written dissertation. They will thus have developed their own critical model for linking the academic and practical outcomes of their enquiry, and the skills to present their conclusions convincingly.

Entry

On application students submit a detailed research proposal of around 2000 words outlining the thesis they wish to pursue and the methodologies that would support it (including the proposed method of linking academic to practical research outcomes).

Bryan Wallick (PGDip piano)

'I came to the Academy to get an international experience that would differ from my education at The Juilliard School. The PG Diploma is a wonderful programme that allows me significant practice time to prepare for many international competitions and concerts. In addition to my weekly lessons with Professor Elton, I have been able to have lessons with six or seven different teachers. Last year I played in a London Sinfonietta concert at the Queen Elizabeth Hall after winning an Academy competition.'

Which Programme is right for you?

The Academy's postgraduate programmes offer a flexible and co-ordinated scheme of awards, from Diploma through to Doctorate. Candidates interested in any of these programmes should apply to the Registry. MMus applicants are required to send in samples of their written work or compositions, and research degree students have to submit a fully developed research proposal before being called to an interview. Once admitted to the Academy, all postgraduate students receive regular tutorial advice to help with their educational and career decisions.

Programme Duration

Some postgraduate programmes follow a standard length of study, like the 9-month Postgraduate Diploma in Musical Theatre and the MMus in Composition, which usually lasts two calendar years (24 months). The Diploma and MMus in Performance are more flexible and allow students to take the credit-modules in one or two years, according to the student's standard on entry, educational needs, and funding position. The Conducting and Vocal programmes usually last three years.

The proposal should suggest how the thesis will contribute to the current disciplines of performance research and to the student's own development as a performer. They also submit evidence of their standards of written and practical work, both of which will be considered at their entrance interview.

Assessment

As a final assessment students submit a written thesis of 30,000 words (MPhil) or 50,000 words (PhD), which is usually expected to include performance documentation of various kinds.

Supporting Studies

Research students attend and take part in doctoral seminars and performance research seminars held in the York Gate Collections.

MPhil/PhD in Composition

Aims and Objectives

The MPhil/PhD Programme in Composition is designed to encourage postgraduate composers to pursue their artistic development to the highest possible level and to reflect critically upon the significance of their compositional activity through analytical exploration and through collaborative work in a performance environment. Such intensive and wide-ranging study will allow students to extend their scope and effectiveness as composers, while offering them a training relevant to the task of teaching or lecturing in composition.

Learning Outcomes

Students will have demonstrated originality and coherence of musical invention across a substantial portfolio of compositions, as well as a command of existing musical techniques. They will be able to offer a convincing written account of the compositional, and in some cases performance, processes involved in producing their portfolio of scores and recordings. They will also have learned how to provide a written critique of their work using academically recognised analytical techniques.

Entry

On application, students submit a detailed research proposal of around 2000 words outlining the planned content of their portfolio (including any plans for collaborative work) and the analytical and critical questions to be addressed in the accompanying written component. They also submit evidence of their standards of compositional and written work, both of which will be considered at their entrance interview.

Assessment

As a final assessment, students submit a portfolio of compositions of around 45 minutes (for the award of an MPhil) or 60 minutes (for the PhD). The portfolio is linked to a written dissertation of 15,000 words (MPhil) or 25,000 words (PhD), which must show a coherent and well-presented argument, confirming the candidate's grasp of academic analytical discourse, as well as an ability to reflect critically upon his/her own compositional activity.

Supporting Studies

Research students attend and take part in doctoral seminars, composition research seminars and the New Repertoire Forum.

Postgraduate Diploma in Performance and MMus in Performance

Introduction

The Postgraduate Diploma and MMus in Performance aim to train aspiring professional performers who have normally completed an undergraduate course to a high level of performance before entry, and also to create a programme of study appropriate to an individual's needs, in an environment in which students are able to reach the highest possible standards. The programme aims to form a 'bridge' to a performance career and those who apply should have a clear idea of their future aims.

Students are involved in the full gamut of ensemble and complementary activities: chamber music, orchestras, opera, early music, contemporary music, church music etc, as arranged by faculty and monitored closely by the Postgraduate Tutors, who assist in balancing the work-load.

Students at this level are expected to perform regularly. There are opportunities to play in lunchtime and early-evening concerts, to perform concertos with the Academy's orchestras, and to participate in performance classes and masterclasses, in the annual Composer Festivals and the Academy's wide range of competitive prizes and chamber music evenings.

The MMus programme has been created in response to the growing interest in performance research. The programme will interest students who wish to combine high-level performance opportunities with different kinds of academic study and research, and who see this as a way of enhancing their achievement as postgraduate performers. The programme is designed to meet the needs of diverse students with a commitment to performance research, whether they are conservatoire or university graduates, and with a range of career aspirations.

MMus students wishing to follow an entirely practice-based programme should choose Presentation in Performance (see Specialist Performance options) and Concert Project (see Project Work). Correspondingly, MMus students interested in academic study should choose Performance Analysis, and Dissertation.

MMus in Composition

Introduction

The MMus in Composition is one of the most intensive programmes at the Royal Academy of Music, requiring that composers engage in a demanding schedule of project-work as set out by the Programme Co-ordinator.

The aim is for the students to consolidate their technical skills and to gather experience of composing in as wide a range of professional contexts as possible, whilst stimulating the development of their particular compositional personalities. Analysis and critical reflection are conceived as vital to this balance of internal and external stimuli, so that all postgraduate composers are required to engage in some kind of academic project-work and all are registered as part of an MMus programme.

The MMus is designed as a two-year programme, with faculty projects and skills classes being set out as a progression over that time-span. Only in exceptional circumstances would a candidate be judged capable of taking the programme in one year.

Postgraduate composers are expected to become involved in concerts and different kinds of collaborative work, to make the most of the Academy's thriving environment.

Core Composition Aims and Objectives

The central component of the MMus programme is designed to help students develop a distinctive compositional personality and to equip them to deal effectively with a wide range of professional demands.

Learning Outcomes

Students will have strengthened and refined their technical skills as composers and learned how to adapt them to the challenge of writing for different resources and to meet different functions. They will thus have learned to respond confidently to external demands, even when working under pressure. They will also have developed a high degree of self-criticism so that they can reflect upon their

Programme Summary

The PG Dip/MMus programmes can be taken over one or two years (or three years for vocal and conducting students).

All students are assessed in:
>Core Performance (100 credits)
>Specialist Performance (20 credits).

MMus students, in addition to these, undertake:
>Project Work (60 credits).

The PG Dip thus incorporates 120 credits, over a minimum 9 months study; the MMus 180 credits, over a minimum 12 months' study.

Core Performance (PG Dip and MMus)

Learning Outcomes

Students will be equipped technically and musically to demonstrate a distinctive interpretative personality in both solo and ensemble live concert performances. They will have gained confidence and experience with the range of skills expected of them in their area of the music profession, and learned critically to evaluate their own performance.

Assessment

- >Final Recital (or equivalent)
- >Concerto Assessment (or equivalent)
- >Profile Report on Faculty Activity, including reports from individual lessons, concerts, performance classes, ensembles, etc.

Specialist Performance (PG Dip and MMus)

Learning Outcomes

Students will be equipped to perform to a high level in a 'real-life' performance context that is relevant to their interests. They will thus have demonstrated their confidence in adapting their presentational skills to the demands of a particular practical and, in some cases, academic context.

PGDip Options

One of:

- >Presentation in Performance
- >Faculty-specific course.

MMus Options

One of:

- >Presentation in Performance
- >Performance Analysis
- >Faculty-specific course.

Project Work (MMus only)

Learning Outcomes

Students will have learned to establish research aims relevant to their development as musicians, and to draw on the research processes which allow such aims to be realised. They will have developed a critical awareness of the current debates within practice-based research and/or musicology. They will also have increased their effectiveness as researching performers and, in some cases, as academic musicologists.

Options

One of:

- >Dissertation
- >Concert Project.

distinctiveness as composers in relation to the practice of others, and will know how best to work upon and expand their own compositional personalities.

Portfolio (90 credits)

A number of items, as specified in faculty requirements and negotiated with the Head of Department.

Profile Report on Faculty Activity

(30 credits)

Reports from individual lessons and from coursework in:

- >Conducting
- >Orchestration
- >Analysis
- >Skills Tests (including Take-Away paper and special projects).

Project Work

Aims and Objectives

This credit-component is designed to encourage the students to reflect critically upon their activity as composers and to refine their skills in academic and practical presentation.

Learning Outcomes

Students will have learned how to present an analysis (whether of their own music or of another composer's) in a convincing written format that meets the standards of postgraduate academic work. They will also have learned how to communicate their musical ideas effectively in live presentation—whether in the context of a seminar, rehearsal or concert—so combining academic and practical skills.

Analysis Project (30 credits)

A written project of c. 5–8,000 words

Concert Presentation

(30 credits)

Students organise and present a concert of their own music.

Undergraduate Programme: BMus

48/49

Introduction

The Academy is a full member of the University of London.

The Academy collaborates closely with King's College London as a means of allowing students to work within a broad educational and artistic environment; shared lectures and classes enable students from both institutions to benefit from an ever-increasing range of activities and facilities. Details are available on request.

The Tutor System

Two BMus Tutors are available to discuss the performance and academic options available to students, timetabling, progress, and any other aspects of their programme of study. With responsibility for both academic and pastoral welfare, Tutors monitor the overall progress of a student and act as an effective and important representational link between the student and the institution. International students may refer to the International Students Officer for help with any specific problems, including those arising from cultural differences.

Principal Study

This is the focal point of a student's musical development and is taught to a professional level on both an individual and group/class basis.

Each student receives one hour of one-to-one tuition per week in Principal Study. In some cases students may take an

Courses for Composers

Techniques of Composition
> (Years 1–4) covers fundamental technical and structural concepts of composition from the 16th century to the present day. Instrumentation & Computer Transcription and Advanced Orchestration are studied in Years 2 and 3 respectively.

Courses for Media and Applied Music

Years 1 and 2: Commercial Workshop and Manson Ensemble
Years 3 and 4: Commercial Workshop, Manson Ensemble and Symphonic Workshop.

Techniques and Analysis (T&A)

This two-year, seminar-based course aims to develop understanding and appreciation of music at a technical level. Pastiche composition aims to provide facility in manipulating musical materials and ideas. Analysis of musical processes cultivates an ability to make informed performance decisions.

Business for Musicians (BfM)

Practical training in a variety of career skills essential to many musicians, such as general administration and the organisation of a professional ensemble. Applications of studio and computer technology are also examined, as are methods of producing and marketing a CD.

Introduction to Performance Practice (IPP)

An investigation of performance techniques and interpretative issues. This equips students with tools to investigate repertoire in both historical and contemporary contexts.

'When done as well as this, above all with such verve and enthusiasm, student opera is hard to resist. With prospects such as this standing by, we can feel reassured about the vocal future'

(Royal Academy Opera's Il mondo della luna) additional Second Study (e.g. piano for an oboist) and in most cases students will take a Related Study (e.g. piccolo for a flautist). Students are assessed by an annual examination in May/June.

Ensembles

All performance activities are assessable within the BMus degree.

Ensembles for Orchestral Players

In addition to regular chamber music, the Academy provides comprehensive orchestral training (p.07). Orchestral planning generally follows a four-year cycle:

> Year 1: string students play in String Orchestra; woodwind, brass, and percussion players perform in Symphonic Wind Ensemble and Brass Ensemble

> Years 2 and 3: students play in Symphony Orchestra, Symphonic Wind Ensemble and Brass Ensemble, and in Media & Applied Music sessions

> Year 4: students will be involved in Sinfonia, Manson Ensemble (contemporary), and brass ensembles. String players are selected for the Royal Academy Soloists by audition. There are ample opportunities for performance groups in Historical Performance. The Sinfonia or 'period' ensembles perform for Royal Academy Opera as appropriate.

All rehearsals and other performance activities are carefully monitored to ensure that students enjoy a proper balance of studies.

Jazz Ensembles

Big Band and other Ensembles including workshops and combos.

Undergraduate Concerts

By agreement with their teacher, students may submit a lunchtime or early-evening concert proposal to the Concert Manager. All performances are assessed and contribute towards course units for Ensembles. There are also regular performance opportunities outside the Academy.

Class Electives

Offered to students from the third year onwards, class electives encourage exploration of specific repertoire (e.g. Mozart Opera, Chamber Music, Late Romanticism, etc) and development of areas of specific technical expertise (e.g. Instrumentation, Specialist Keyboard Skills, Analysis, Advanced Techniques, etc).

Classes run as seminar groups, and students are expected to engage with emerging critical ideas and take the initiative in individual project work.

Topics in Western Music History (TWMH)

This one-year course focuses on the musicological, social and political context of composers within the western art tradition.

Presentational methods range from formal chronological surveys of historical periods to discussions of selected works. The programme aims to generate an environment where students feel able to question received terms and definitions.

Humanities

The Humanities curriculum, which is unique to the Academy, is designed to introduce students to new disciplines and thereby extend creative abilities through encouraging critical thought. Subject areas, which range widely, take into account the aesthetic, social, political and ethical issues facing the contemporary performing artist. Classes are structured as seminars, offering students an opportunity to engage in lively debate. BMus students with particular interest in pursuing humanities and academic music courses at King's College London are strongly encouraged.

Supporting Studies

The components of the Supporting Studies curriculum are designed to enhance musicianship and broaden musical awareness.

Aural Training

Mandatory coursework focuses on pitch, rhythm, intonation, polyphonic awareness and texture. Preliminary training is available for students with limited aural training experience.

Keyboard Skills

The curriculum covers score-reading, harmonisation, improvisation and accompaniment. Preliminary training is available for students with limited keyboard experience.

Conducting

All students are taught the basic elements of baton technique and ensemble training.

Technology

An introductory course for all students covering computer production techniques necessary to the contemporary performer.

Professional Development

A compulsory component of Year 3. Term 1: Principles of Education. Term 2: Music in Community. A pass in Principles of Education is a registration requirement for the LRAM Teaching Diploma: (see p.43). Registration costs £75.

One-Year Programmes

Foundation Programme

If your musical skills are good enough for BMus entry but your English language skills are below IELTS 5.5, you can apply for the Academy's one-year Foundation Programme—offering you an intensive English language course as well as providing music tuition. You take the standard BMus audition, and your English language skills must reach IELTS 4.5.

If you satisfactorily complete the Foundation Programme, you will normally progress to Year 1 of the BMus. Further information is available from www.ram.ac.uk or from the Registry.

Year-In Programmes

If you wish to benefit from undergraduate training at the Academy but do not require a full programme of study which leads to a qualification, the Academy offers a range of Year-In opportunities.

All Year-In students are considered as fully-enrolled members of the Academy's student body, and have equal access to the Academy's resources (library, computers, practice rooms etc). Further information is available from www.ram.ac.uk or from the Registry.

The common principles are to:

- > enable you to benefit from one year of conservatoire education
- > provide you with a tailor-made course of study according to your individual strengths and needs
- > offer you the same performance opportunities provided for degree students (with the approval of your Academic Tutor and Head of Study)
- > offer you appropriate academic subjects in consultation with your Tutor
- > assess your practical and/or academic progress by examination
- > provide a transcript of your studies, but no award (degree or diploma).

'Electrifying versions should have successfully put bad ideas in to the heads of all the music scholars present: study hard, and you too could become a rock star'

London Evening Standard, Dec. 2002, on Elton John at the Royal Opera House with RAM Symphony Orchestra

Entry to the BMus programme other than in Year 1

In some cases it is possible to enter BMus in Year 2 or Year 3. You will normally be studying on a music degree at another institution, and will have received sufficient credits to allow a transfer to the Academy's degree programme. Entry will usually be to Year 2, however in exceptional cases entry to Year 3 may be possible. Any transfer must be agreed by your current institution.

Exchanges

The Royal Academy of Music offers its students the chance to study abroad as part of their undergraduate studies. Two types of exchanges are on offer; those run by the European Union under the Socrates-Erasmus exchange scheme, and individual arrangements the Academy has with institutions in North America, Australia and Japan, also with institutions in Europe which are not members of the Socrates-Erasmus scheme. Exchanges are increasingly popular and provide students with an excellent opportunity to broaden their musical horizons further.

Classification of degrees

In awarding degrees, examiners take into account the total number of passes obtained, the standard at which courses have been passed, the distribution of marks, any material improvement or deterioration in a student's performance during the degree course, as well as additional factors such as illness or other personal circumstances known to them.

The categories are:

> Gap Year—if you wish to spend a year at the Academy before taking up a full-time programme of study at another institution, at which you have already secured a place. Audition requirements are the same as for BMus.

> Year Abroad—if you are a non-UK student and wish to benefit from a conservatoire education at the Academy by interrupting studies at your 'home' institution, when there is no existing exchange agreement in place. It is possible to attend for part of one academic year (one or two terms, or a semester-equivalent period). We prefer you to attend for an audition (BMus requirements) but it may be possible to apply by submitting a recording; please contact the Registry for details.

> Organ Foundation—if you are a gap-year student preparing for an Oxbridge organ scholarship, or if you wish to develop your organ/choral direction skills before your formal university or conservatoire training. Audition requirements are available at www.ram.ac.uk or from the Registry.

> Exchange Programmes The Academy has exchange agreements with many conservatoires across the world. These are normally for students on a BMus programme going into Year 3, but can also be for students studying on a Postgraduate Diploma programme or MMus programme.

Exchanges can be for one term, one semester or a full academic year. The Academy's exchanges are normally a reciprocal arrangement. If there is no exchange agreement with your institution, or if a reciprocal student cannot be found, you may be offered a Year-In Year Abroad studentship.

Please ask your institution's Exchange Coordinator for further information.

Application Procedure

You must fill in and return an official application form with an application fee. Forms and more information are available at www.ram.ac.uk and from the Registry.

If you are applying for the MMus programme, you must include two pieces of music-related written work (1000-2000 words each). Further information is available from www.ram.ac.uk or the Registry. If we decide that the MMus is unsuitable for you, we will invite you to audition for the Postgraduate Diploma instead — and if you do not take up this offer, a half-refund of their application fee will be made.

The Academy may hold late auditions for candidates unable to attend in December, for example, due to illness certified by a doctor before the end of December 2004. However, because of the strict

Entry Qualifications

Undergraduate Programmes: BMus

Age

Normally 17 at the time of registration (but see below—Special Admissions).

Entrance Standards

Evidence of professional performing potential in Principal-study, sound general musicianship and a good aural response. As a guide to the technical standards expected, you should consult the syllabuses for Associated Board of the Royal Schools of Music (ABRSM, www.abrsm.ac.uk) examinations at Grade 8 and Advanced Certificate level. There is no formal minimum standard in keyboard skills, but an ABRSM Grade 5 minimum (or equivalent) is desirable in piano where keyboard is not the Principal-study, to enable students to improve their general musicianship.

Academic Qualifications (UK and Ireland)

- > England and Wales: passes in two GCE Advanced level examinations, normally including a full A-level in Music. A pass at 'AS' level counts as half an A-level
- > Scotland: B grade and at least four C-grade passes in Highers, including Music. An A-C grade Advanced Higher qualification is considered to be equivalent to an A-level pass
- > Ireland: B grade and at least four C-grade passes in the Leaving Certificate.

Other Qualifications equivalent to GCE A-level:

- > BTEC National Diploma
- > VCE (Vocational A-level/ Advanced GNVQ)
- > A pass in ABRSM Grade 8 (Theory) plus a pass in ABRSM Grade 8 (Practical)
- > 'Double' Advanced examinations in Music will satisfy the two A-level requirement.
- > International Baccalaureate: the Diploma, including music as a Group 6 subject, will satisfy the two A-level requirement.

Academic qualifications (International)

You may verify the acceptability of your qualifications at www.ram.ac.uk, but you should send copies of official transcripts or certificates with your application form. If subsequently offered a place, you must send original documentation to the Registry.

numbers of places available, late auditions will not be held if faculty quotas are already reached.

Deferred Entry

The Academy does not consider applications for deferred entry.

Open Days

Open Days are designed for the public to observe Academy work-in-progress. They are directed particularly towards applicants who may wish to consult specific staff on any aspect of the Academy 'experience'.

Open Days are organised from late September by each department. For details please see www.ram.ac.uk, or write to the relevant department.

You are welcome to drop in for any of our many free public concerts during term-time to sample the Academy's dynamic atmosphere more informally.

Allocation of teachers and Consultation Lessons

The Academy takes great care over the allocation of students to teachers. Every effort is made to accommodate students' preferences but the final allocation is at the absolute discretion of the Principal.

Consultation lessons may be organised with a professor prior to entry, for which there may be a charge, payable to the professor. Please contact the relevant department to organise this.

Key Application Dates

For auditions in East Asia, please contact the relevant centre by 1st October 2004 (see page 55). Dates for Australian and East Asian auditions are subject to confirmation.

1st October 2004

Application forms deadline including recordings and MMus essays (except Conducting, Choral Direction and Church Music, North American auditions and Musical Theatre).

22nd October 2004

Portfolio and accompanying recording deadline for Media and Applied Music, Composition.

March 2005

Choral Direction and Church Music auditions in London. Auditions in North America.

Postgraduate Programmes

Age

Normally 21 by 31st December in the year of entry.

Entrance Standards

At least equivalent to a recognised music diploma in the Principal-study.

Academic Qualifications

Candidates should normally be completing or have completed a full-time (undergraduate) programme of musical study. Candidates for the MMus must possess a good honours degree, normally in Music. Candidates for the MPhil must possess a Masters degree.

Equality

The Academy does not discriminate against students on grounds of age, sex, disability, ethnicity, religion, etc. It does, however, judge applicants critically on their personal suitability for a course of study according to ability and their potential to develop into professional musicians. The Disability Statement can be viewed at www.ram.ac.uk.

English Language Requirements for International Students

Those accepting a place at the Academy from a country where English is not a first language are required to demonstrate their language proficiency by 1st May 2005. The Academy has adopted the International English Language Testing System (IELTS – academic tests) and students are required to take this examination, in their own country, soon after accepting a place at the Academy. Minimum recommended IELTS scores are:

- > Foundation (4.5)
- > BMus/Year-In (5.5)
- > PGDip (5.0)
- > MMus/MPhil (7.0).

Information on test centres can be obtained from www.ielts.org or from the Registry.

In countries where IELTS is not available, the Academy will accept TOEFL results as follows:

- > Foundation: 450 (paper test), 133 (computer test)
- > BMus: 550 (paper test), 210 (computer test)
- > PGDip: 500 (paper test), 173 (computer test)
- > MMus/MPhil: 600 (paper test), 250 (computer test).

The Academy offers a short 'acclimatisation' course to selected international students before the beginning of the academic year.

Fees

54/55

Application Fees

Application fee: £60 (or £70 if received after the advertised closing date). Application fee for auditions in North America: £120 sterling. Application fee for South Korea: Refer to local audition co-ordinator.

Application fee for Composition, Media & Applied Music and Research degrees: £35, with a further £25 payable if you are called for interview following scrutiny of your portfolio.

The Academy accepts payments by sterling cheque, Eurocheque, UK postal order, bank transfer or cash (do not send cash by post). If you withdraw before attending the audition, you will not be entitled to a refund. Applications received after the advertised deadline may be placed on a waiting list for an audition; an additional late fee of £10 will be payable.

Annual fees for full-time programmes for 2005–2006 have not yet been determined. Fees for 2004–2005, which are likely to rise, are:

	Home/EU	International
BMus	£1,150	£13,000
PG Dip	£5,725	£13,000
MMus	£6,250	£13,000
MPhil/PhD	£3,600	£7,500
Foundation	£6,500	£13,000
Year-In	£5,200	£5,200
Organ
Foundation	£6,250	£6,250
Musical
Theatre	£9,100	£9,100

Home/EU fees are subsidised by the UK government.

Payment of Tuition Fees

Most EU students will be entitled to pay fees at the 'home' rate provided they meet certain residency conditions which are detailed at www.ram.ac.uk and in the notes sent out with application forms.

Annual fees, other than those payable by EU students on the BMus Programme, are normally payable in advance with a 25% deposit due in mid-April (1st March for candidates auditioned in Asia).

Students with UK fee status taking up places on the BMus Programme should contact their Local Education Authority to be means-tested for a 'fees' award. These awards and any subsequent loans required for living costs are administered through the Student Loans Company. Similar arrangements exist for EU (non-UK) students

Your Audition

Audition Requirements

Please see the relevant department pages for specific details of audition requirements. Further details appear at www.ram.ac.uk.

Technical work (scales, arpeggios, etc) may be required of all instrumentalists.

You may be given sight reading or quick study tests. As time is limited for some auditions, you may be interrupted before you have performed a complete piece.

Musicianship and keyboard skills tests may be required of all prospective undergraduates, who are asked to bring a short piano piece to demonstrate their level of keyboard skills.

The precise format for auditions will vary according to Principal-study. In most cases auditions will last from 20 to 30 minutes.

Whilst the Academy provides a pool of accompanists for the London auditions in December, you are strongly advised to bring your own. Some audition requirements may change: please check www.ram.ac.uk or contact the Registry if you have any queries.

Written paper: all undergraduate candidates are required to take a 50-minute written paper which comprises harmonisation of a simple melody and a choice of short essay questions of a general musical nature. The Academy regrets that it cannot issue specimen papers.

(il mondo della luna)

International Candidates

If you live in Europe, you must attend the main London auditions in December 2004. Other international candidates are strongly advised to do likewise (but also see below):

Candidates from North America

If you live in Canada or the USA, you must audition in either London (December 2004) or North America (March 2005, Toronto, New York and Boston). Auditions in North America are not open to applicants for Jazz, Composition, Conducting, Choral Direction, or Musical Theatre.

The deadline for receipt of applications is 7th January 2005. The application fee is £120.

Some auditions (e.g. composition vivas) may be possible via audio-visual link with Cleveland Institute of Music. For details, please contact the Registry.

who will be notified individually on how to apply for a 'fees only' award (NB cost-of-living loans are not available to non-UK students).

Financial Assistance

Student loans are only available to UK students attending the BMus Programme (see above).

The Academy may be able to assist some students (normally postgraduates and full-fee paying international students) towards the costs of their fees and living expenses. If you have auditioned successfully before 31st January, we will send you a Financial Aid Form.

Students who experience difficulties with living costs may also apply for assistance from the Academy's 'Hardship' funds.

Scholarships

Entrance scholarships are awarded to selected candidates following audition. Funds vary from year to year but the Academy tries to make available as much money as it can.

ABRSM International Scholarships

Each year the Associated Board of the Royal Schools of Music offers to full fee-paying international students one Undergraduate and one Postgraduate Scholarship in connection with, and on the recommendation of, each of the Royal Schools of Music. The Scholarships cover full-fees and part-maintenance for the duration of undergraduate programmes, and for one or two years for postgraduate programmes. Only candidates who have attained, at the time of their application, a standard equivalent to a good pass at the Advanced Certificate or the DipABRSM of the Associated Board are likely to have a chance of success. Applicants at postgraduate level are expected to demonstrate advanced technical and musical accomplishment.

Further information and application forms are available only from the ABRSM (www.abrsm.ac.uk), 24 Portland Place London W1B 1LU Telephone +44 (0)20 7636 5400 Email international@abrsm.ac.uk

Certification of Fees

If you accept a place you must produce a written assurance, certified by an authoritative person such as a bank manager, that you have sufficient financial resources to cover both fees and living costs for your entire programme of study.

USA Students

The Academy is a designated institution for American students to apply for a Stafford Loan or for deferment of payment on an existing loan account. The Academy's School Code Number is G11764 and the DOE code is 006696. The Academy does not have 'electronic capability' and does not automatically receive information about loan applicants. You should approach your loan provider and request a duplicate copy of the relevant paperwork. This should be sent to the Academy for completion and ratification.

Candidates from Australasia

If you live in Australasia, you must audition in either London (December 2004) or Australia (dates to be confirmed, Brisbane, Melbourne and Sydney). Auditions in Australia are not open to applicants for Jazz, Composition, Conducting, Choral Direction, or Musical Theatre.

The deadline for receipt of applications is 7th January 2005. The application fee is £60.

Candidates from East Asia

Auditions take place in Tokyo, Seoul, Hong Kong and Taipei in early January 2005. If you live in East Asia, you must attend either one of these auditions or the main auditions held in London in December 2004. Auditions in East Asia are not open to applicants for Jazz, Composition, Conducting, Choral Direction, or Musical Theatre.

Deadlines for auditions in East Asia are specified by the relevant centre. Application enquiries should be directed as follows:

Video and CD Recordings

If you do not live in Europe, East Asia, Australasia or North America, the Academy will accept videos (UK VHS format only) with an accompanying CD/cassette/minidisc of the same performance.

All recordings must be received by 1st October 2004 and must be authenticated by a person of authority. You must complete the standard application form and video form.

Your Audition Date

Please see p.53 or www.ram.ac.uk for key application dates.

Notification of Results

The Registry will notify all candidates of the result of their audition as soon as possible. We will endeavour to contact all candidates placed on the reserve list as soon as we have any further news. Candidates who have been offered a place but wish to withdraw should write to the Admissions Officer. All offers made are conditional upon the candidate achieving the stated educational and language requirements.
